

Publishing in Chemistry

Joe P. Richmond

Editor-in-Chief, Advanced Synthesis & Catalysis (Wiley)

Dantestrasse 22, 69115 Heidelberg, Germany, e-mail: vch-asc@wiley.com

Joe P. Richmond received his PhD in organic chemistry from MIT (Massachusetts Institute of Technology: Cambridge, MA, US) in 1970, followed by a postdoc at Harvard with E. J. Corey. After a position as Professor in Venezuela and travels in France, Italy, and Germany, he did a postdoc in Hamburg with Armin de Meijere before joining Thieme, Stuttgart, as Editor. In 1996 he moved to Springer, Heidelberg. In 2000 he became an independent editor and initiated Advanced Synthesis & Catalysis (ASC 2022 Impact Factor 5.4 - Number 1 for primary organic chemistry journals).

Orcid.org/0000-0003-2187-931X

Visit his recent editorial commentary on the 2022 Impact Factors entitled “Lower Impact Factors, but not Lower Impact. 4-6 is the new 5-6” (<https://doi.org/10.1002/adsc.202300834>).